In concluding her report, Mrs. Nugent told the audience that, "Everyone comes to us from different walks of life," and asserted in the end, "We pounded the pavement!"

Following the Executive Director's presentation, was the introduction of the keynote speaker, Dr. Peter Rosa, who was described as a legacy himself. Dr. Rosa took the stage humbly and continued to highlight the importance of education at any age or location. He stated he was "Not ready to give up on any generation" as he continued to stress that every entity was important; using statistics of nearby regions such as Hartford to support his point.

This year's Friend of CONNTAC Award was graciously accepted by Dr. Elsa Nunez, President of

On Friday, October 17, 2014, CONNTAC, Inc. held its 47th Annual Breakfast Meeting. This year's theme was Mobilizing Access and Success, Through Education. The theme was delightfully emphasized by keynote speaker Dr. Peter Rosa and Friend of CONNTAC, Dr. Elsa Nunez. Old and new friends with a common goal of signifying the benefits of education as a means of opportunity gathered to congratulate ten CONNTAC scholarship recipients from across Connecticut. At the beginning of the event, a musical selection titled "I believe I can fly" performed by Kecia Holden filled the room with grace and encouragement as the audience listened intently.

After the program welcome and invocation, Executive Director, Cecilia F. Nugent delivered the program's Educational Access Update Report. This report brought to light many accomplishments and challenges the organization faced during the 2013-2014 fiscal year. As reported, during the period of September 2013 – August 2014 CONNTAC, Inc. served:

- A total of 3,096 students

port and love while growing up, she was motivated to become academically successful. Dr. Nunez's narrative of her personal experience was heartfelt and relevant for many of the scholarship recipients as she ended with the statement, "Do things for your family."

Are You An Independent Or Dependent Student?

By DeShayla Shelley

Early in December 2014, a Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) workshop was hosted by CONNTAC, for New Haven Adult Education Students. During the workshop, the students who were expected to graduate at the end of that month, were guided through the FAFSA application process as a group. One of the main issues in filling out the FAFSA is determining one's dependency status, especially in the confusing dependency eligibility section.

Often times, students are uncertain about whether they are an Independent or Dependent student. If you classify yourself as an Independent student, then you do not need to provide your parents' income information. However, if the student is a Dependent, then she/he will have to provide that information.

In the dependency eligibility section of the FAFSA, if the student answers yes to any of the following questions, the student is an Independent:

- If you are 24 years of age or older, in the military,
- Have dependents that you provide more than 50% financial support
- Are married the day you submit your FAFSA
- Was at one point since turning

13 or is currently in legal guardianship or a ward of the courts

If a student cannot say yes to any of the criteria listed, they are indeed a Dependent student. Whether the student lives with their parents or if the parents claim them as a dependent, does not qualify or disqualify the student's dependency status.

For example, a single 22 year old student who lives alone, with no children or dependents of their own, who files their own tax return, is still considered a Dependent and will need to provide their Parents' tax return.

However, a single 22 year old student who lives alone, no children or dependents of their own, who files their own tax return, but has been in foster care at one point of their life after the age of 13, is considered an Independent because they would be able to say yes to one of the dependency eligibility questions.

Knowing the correct dependency status can result in a successful FAFSA completion. This would result in a smooth admissions process.

2014 Veteran Stand Down Event

The Veteran Stand Down Event took place on September 12, 2014, at the Connecticut Veterans Home in Rocky Hill. CONNTAC, Inc. – EOC was represented by Educational Counselor Margarita (Daisy) Aiken.

The Veteran Stand Down event is an annual event and this year's gathering had over 1,500 veterans. There were many organizations represented; for example, Connecticut Social Services, Connecticut DMV, and Judicial Courts. Services provided during the event included medical screenings, Veteran Benefits both State and Federal, Employment and Educational Assistance. Transportation was provided from all over the state by chartered buses. The veterans and service providers were sumptuously fed with great tasting warm food and great beverage choices as well.

Many veterans stood in lines for hours at The Stand Down for free clothes and blankets that were handed out.

CONNTAC's table and banner was spread and covered with giveaways. There were CONNTAC brochures and flyers, free canvas bags, t-shirts, coffee mugs, and travel mugs. About 45 veterans came to the table interested in learning about CONNTAC and the services it provided. Many of the veterans weren't aware of the Federal Pell Grant for which many of them could be eligible.

There were a few veterans who felt very comfortable disclosing some of the struggles they endured while they were in military service and after their service ended. The 2014 Veteran Stand Down was a touching and memorable experience.
